THE COMPANY

Our client is a young scale-up based in Amsterdam that aims to do one thing, improve the user experience entering the cryptocurrency scene. This means changing traditional money into cryptocurrencies. This should be a process that is as frictionless as possible and our client will make that happen. They do this by adding a plug-in into existing applications such as wallets, DeFi application and trading platforms. By offering people the cheapest and easiest on-ramps they take away the headaches associated to this process currently. Imagine a skyscanner-like plug-in for ways to buy crypto. They call themselves the future paypal of crypto, and they're right on their way to become just that.

Recently their company did a bit of reorganizing to get all noses in the same direction. All that is left are the best developers and the people who really believe in the project. This means 25 people left of which 8 developers with strong experience in software development. The company is still relatively small, but they have ambitions to grow a lot, and even in this crypto bear market, they're still hiring!

Besides their already impressive list of partnerships, they have some really big names in the pipelines to become partners, which we can't disclose yet. But these partnerships might have something to do with their ambitions to grow this quickly...

THE JOB

So it gets even more exciting. Because the company is so young they're looking for the best full stack devs that want to shape this scale-up into the heavy hitter it's looking to become. The techstack is Typescript, AWS, React and Node mainly but an agnostic view on technology is important too, be willing to learn everything. For now you won't be doing anything with blockchain development specifically yet, but within the foreseeable future, you could be doing that too! It's your choice whether you want to be a part of that or not. Do you have a suggestion to change the techstack? They want to hear your case and will seriously take it into consideration!

One of the great things about entering a promising company like this at this stage is that the positions you can take are endless:

- Do you like to just work on clean code all day? This is the right place.
- Do you want to take a lead position? This is the right place.
- Do you want to go all the way up to high management to help architect the entire technical side of the company? This is the right place.

There is even space to try different positions out without being stuck in that position if it doesn't fit!

You and the other early devs will be shaping this company and grow with it!
