BEDRIJFSPROFIEL

At AppyThings, it's all about delivering innovative integration solutions that help organizations achieve their ambitions. Since our founding in 2014, we have positioned ourselves as the first European boutique partner of Apigee API Management, and since then, we have evolved into a progressive player in API Management, Event Streaming Platform, and API Security.

Our company culture is characterized by authenticity, attention, and expertise. We believe in nurturing an environment where thinkers and doers thrive, and where everyone is encouraged to tackle challenges and push boundaries.

As partners of leading API Management, Event Streaming, and API Security platforms, we only offer top-notch products. At AppyThings, we believe that our success stems from the success of our customers. Therefore, we constantly strive to deliver the best possible integration solutions and to be a true partner for our customers on their journey towards digital transformation and growth.

Some examples of our successful integration projects include collaborating with Eneco, where we read all data from smart meters and display it in the app, and collaborating with the Port of Rotterdam, where we provide information on water depth via APIs to safely guide ships into the harbor. Additionally, we also handle the integration of package weight and dimension data to PostNL, which is then processed through our APIs in various applications.

FUNCTIE OMSCHRIJVING

As a Fullstack Developer with a focus on Vue.js, you are responsible for designing, developing, and implementing software solutions for our systems. You work on both the frontend and backend of various projects, closely collaborating with our team of developers, designers, and project managers.

As a member of the team, you will be:

- Responsible for building external developer portals for our clients in the specified technology stack.
  - You will closely collaborate with the client to understand and refine the requirements for the components, styling, UI/UX design, and content of the portals.
  - In this role, you will have ultimate accountability for the entire portal building process. It is crucial to set up the components in a reusable manner while also providing the client with the ability to make customizations if desired.
  - This position requires strong communication skills, technical expertise, and attention to detail to deliver high-quality and customizable portals that meet the specific needs of each client.
