HAYSTACK PEOPLE

Product Owner | Online Streaming Service |

ScaleUp | Vast | 90k

COMPANY PROFILE

Our client has built a platform that allows for an online streaming service for adults. Simply put, live webcam shows. However, this is not just any platform, as it generates global high traffic, requiring a substantial amount of technology. This technology was developed by the CTO of the organization, who won an international hackathon. An added bonus is that the prize money provided a significant fund for the development of the platform. So it's not just any software!

What sets this platform apart from others? Through the application of the latest trends and techniques, this is evident in the platform, which incorporates many game elements. You might think of it like Twitch, but for adults. With all the new elements, fresh look, and innovative techniques, the platform has quickly become popular, featuring more than 200 models who are live at all times.

JOB DESCRIPTION

Of course, you will not be in contact with the models. Your main focus will be on the platform that allows the models to do their work. For this, we are looking for a Product Owner. So what will you do as a Product Owner?

As mentioned above, the platform is reminiscent of Twitch, so think about the opportunities the platform offers for "streamers," in this case, the live models. As a Product Owner, you will primarily be responsible for conceptualizing and developing new features for the platform. Responsibilities such as stakeholder management, user stories, wireframes, acceptance testing, and maintaining the backlog should be second nature to you.

Together with an other Product Owner, you will create new features and support the developers as effectively as possible in the area of product development, ensuring they can perform their work seamlessly.

Does this sound interesting to you? Read on to see what we have to offer.
