HAYSTACK PEOPLE

Senior React Native Developer

ScaleUp | Vast | 85k

COMPANY PROFILE

Are you looking for a worldwide show distribution or do you want to expand your stage beyond the usual live show concepts? Our partner can help you with every part of creating, filming, producing, distributing and cashing in on your live and pre-recorded performances. Our client always works with award-winning production teams and world-renowned venues, enabling artists to deliver the most visually captivating and sonically advanced shows to their fans.

The organization has been around for 3 years now and has built its own platform. The idea of the organization is that they offer artists the opportunity to give a concert from home or from other locations. There are concerts around the corner that you can visit right away. But there are also concerts in other countries that you cannot attend so quickly. For this they offer the option to attend the concerts remotely. In addition, they also sell tickets for the shows online via their platform.

JOB DESCRIPTION

The development team now consists of 7 engineers. With decades of production experience, their team has deep expertise in creating elongated content for the ultimate viewing experience across mobile, desktop and connected TVs. The organization works with the most advanced technologies from AWS and more. Our partner has built a delivery platform, fully managed by a professional team. This allows them to make sure that the shows always look super good and that the fans can enjoy them while they are taking place or anytime On Demand wherever they are.

Our partner is looking for a Senior React Native Developer who will become the owner of both the TV and mobile app. The TV app and mobile app are built in React Native. They are not only looking for a Senior React Native Developer who is technically Senior, but they are also looking for someone who also likes to communicate with stakeholders and who likes to guide junior/medior colleagues. You will develop 70% and 30% with stakeholders such as product owners and you will involve your colleagues in the work they perform.
