HAYSTACK PEOPLE

Medior Javascript Developer

Vast

COMPANY PROFILE

Our partner was founded in 2007, they exist 15 years. There are working 40 people there. Their main focus is e-commerce and Product Information Management. They develop and implement Product Information Management and e-commerce software for B2B and B2C. An example of a large customer they have is: the Bijenkorf.
As a Javascript Developer you will work within the team on various projects for one of their largest international clients. This large international customer is part of Samsung. It's a really cool client that did e-commerce for all of Europe. All Frontend solutions are done for this customer, which run on e-commerce websites. Some examples; landing pages, campaign pages, etc. Commerce Cloud is the system they work with.

JOB DESCRIPTION

As a Javascript Developer you work in the team that works on one of their largest international clients. The team is very loyal to that customer and consists of a Senior Front-end Developer & UX/UI Design Lead, a Senior Full-stack Developer, a Front-end Developer and a Project Coordinator. The team is self-organizing.
You will work a lot with the Senior Full-stack Developer who focuses on the backend. The team has many ideas to improve processes and develop new tools. Are you the right colleague who fits our partner and enjoys coming up with ideas together, and especially really enjoys getting started and working everything out? Then this is the right job for you!
The work process looks like this:
Our partner's customer submits tasks and/or projects via a ticket system. This can be a ticket with a small adjustment that is solved in half an hour, but this can also be a larger project that takes you several hours / days. You will be responsible for the tickets held in your name. This means that you can request clarification from the customer where necessary, maintain communication with the customer yourself, resolve the ticket in the most efficient way and also keep an eye on the deadlines to be met.
