Senior frontend developer

ScaleUp | Vast | 80k

COMPANY PROFILE

Our partner is a digital agency based in Delft. They create various personalized web applications for different clients, spanning across various industries but always with the same core focus: solving technically complex software problems with beautiful applications.
In collaboration with a well-known DJ from the Netherlands, they've developed an application allowing content creators, influencers, and other notable figures to share their content. Simply put, it resembles TikTok but with additional features and AI applications. However, their expertise extends beyond this; they specialize in connecting creators, artists, brands, and their fans through various platforms such as the App, Fangage, and TV.
As this platform has grown to over 500 million users, extra hands are needed. They're scaling up with a team exclusively dedicated to this project for the coming years. Curious about your role? Details below.

ROLE DESCRIPTION

We're looking for someone who thrives in a startup environment and embodies its associated mindset. This means sometimes starting a feature with only 75% of the information and frequently experimenting with features to learn and adjust early on.

The entire environment is built with Vue, Nuxt, and PHP. Your role is every developer's dream: building and expanding a massive international platform. Beyond your substantive contributions, you'll also share responsibility for the architecture, technical guidance of colleagues, and project quality assurance.

FUNCTIE EISEN

- Extensive experience with Vue.js, preferably as a senior capable of leading the team
- Proficiency in implementing Nuxt.JS within the project
- With client management skills;

- Flexible working hours;
- 3 days per week in the office
- Macbook including accessories;
- 10% of your work time available for personal development
